1) PROJECT INFORMATION

Field of expertise related to the topic: The University of Girona (UdG) is located in Girona city and is part of the Catalan public university system since 1992. Deeply rooted in Catalonia and the Catalan culture, the UdG is one of the primary economic and cultural motors of the region, while simultaneously pursuing a vocation of universality and openness to all traditions and cultures.

The UdG is a public institution devoted to excellence in teaching and research that strives to contribute to the development and progress of society through the creation, transmission, dissemination and review of knowledge related to sciences, technology, humanities and arts.

Research at the UdG is carried out in more than 100 research groups associated to 24 departments and 12 research institutes. A considerable part of this research is conducted in international contexts, where the UdG has gained wide experience in the management and coordination of international and European grants. The UdG has an excellent European Office for the financial management and support to the projects. The UdG strives to contribute to the development and progress of society through the creation, transmission, dissemination and review of knowledge related to sciences, technology, humanities and arts.

Potential contribution to the project:

The research group involved in a potential project under the next H2020 SWAFS calls is the UdG Applied Social Science Research Group (CISA). CISA Research Group can bring to the potential project & consortium long experience in research, transference, community building and training about social exclusion, social policies and LGBT issues and anti-LGBT hate crime. The team involved in a potential SWAFS Project has participated in “Diversity. Preventing and combating homo- and transphobia in small and medium cities in Europe” and “Come Forward. Empowering and Supporting Victims of Anti-LGBT Hate Crimes” projects, among other national and international projects (see below a table of participated projects). Currently, the CISA team is leading a European Project regarding violence against LGBTI+ and gender non-conforming children.
